'I have four wardrobes to choose from at home, although Dad has the biggest one'

Many young girls like to borrow clothes from their family and Amber Le Bon is no different – although with a supermodel for a mum as well as two sisters, it isn't always easy for the model and DJ.

"We all have different styles and it always starts arguments, sharing clothes, because someone says, 'You didn't put it back,' and you're like, 'I'm sorry. I kind of forgot,'" laughs Amber, the daughter of Yasmin and her pop-star husband Simon.

"It's dangerous territory but it's brilliant because I have four wardrobes to choose from, although Dad has the biggest wardrobe – but let's not go there.

"My style has been evolving recently," she adds. "It's been going down the elegant über-cool Parisian look, so a lot of chiffon shirts and silk blouses."

A FASHIONABLE LIFE

Inspiration comes from an unlikely source for such a young woman. "I watch a lot of old black-and-white movies and get my style tips from Rita Heyworth and Katharine and Audrey Hepburn – beautiful women who understood a woman's figure and dressed for it," she says.

"I'm obsessed with Sophia Loren when she used to wear those little granny dresses that cinched in at the waist and were young and sexy. Why don't people dress like that now? I was definitely born in the wrong era."

Having grown up surrounded by fashion, it's hardly surprising the 24-year-old Londoner became a model herself four years ago. She was signed to US department store Forever 21 upon its UK launch and has posed for brands such as Moschino, Karen Millen, Mango, Michael Kors and Diesel.

Her fashion savvy has now seen Gallo Family Vineyards choose her for its "Moscato Must-Have Edit". Inspired by the fashionable wine, Amber has hand-picked outfits and accessories she thinks every wardrobe needs for the summer.

"I've always been interested in fashion, which is why I took the chance to work with Gallo Family Vineyards Moscato wine," she says.

"I love make-up and jewellery. I'm a very creative person but I'm very scientifically minded too. I always wanted to go into medicine, to be a nurse, which I think I'd be really good ▶ at but will probably never happen. There's a whole bunch of things I'd love to do, I'm just not sure which one to approach first"

Amber has certainly inherited her parents' strong work ethic. Being in the public eye since she was a baby, she thanks her family for keeping her grounded. "Your parents are always a big influence on you; they help you make you who you are. The main thing my parents taught me is to just be a nice person; to be generous, kind and happy. I hope it comes off when I work and meet people. I think it's the easiest thing in the world to be friendly and say please and thank you. I try and remember that and use it."

FULL OF SPARKLE

Her fashion and music genes come out when she is DJing. The model – who can also play the ukele – says: "I'm a huge fan of pastels and mixing them with metallics to give more of a new feel, whether it's a sequined bag or some sparkly eye shadow and jewellery. You need to be able to put something on, live your life in it and have fun, rather than worrying about whether a zipper is coming down all the time."

"I tend to wear dresses to go out in because I'm very much about comfort. I feel girly and fun in dresses and like I want to dance. And once I start dancing that's it, I'm dancing for hours. I do like a good party."

So will she and her sisters, Saffron, 22, and Tallulah, 19, be partying this weekend for Father's Day? "We always forget," she says, with a laugh. "I'm hoping at least one of us will remember otherwise we'll be really bad daughters." H
